UPCOMING MEETINGS

JANUARY 25, 2023

OUR NEXT MEETING

Genealogists may not see eye to eye on the Perfect Organizational System for data and sources, but they will certainly agree that they would rather spend time finding ancestors than filing papers. The challenge is to create a system that suits the personality and habits of the user and is easy to create and maintain.

At our next meeting, we discuss and share ideas about ways to get your research in order.

Come prepared to learn and share.

MEETINGS

Meetings are held quarterly on the last Wednesday of January, April, July, and October. The meetings are held at the Madison County Genealogical Society Library, 20 S. Walnut Street, London, Ohio, 43140 beginning at 7:00 p.m. There is ample parking at the rear of the building and the entrance is handicap accessible.

GENEALOGICAL RESOURCES IN THE LONDON, OHIO, PUBLIC LIBRARY

THE SOURCE: a Guidebook of American Genealogy; Published by Ancestry Publishing Company, Salt Lake City, Utah, 1984.
Edited by Arlene Eakle and Johni Cerny

The London Public Library is now the home of a new Microfilm reader and many census films. More information on this to follow in the next newsletter.

My husband assisted Patrick McLean, the original surveyor, in laying out the town lots of London. It was no easy job, by the way. In company with several others they loaded their horses down with surveyor's tools, saddlebags, etc., and started on a two weeks survey on a new road from London and Sandusky. On account of the abundance of wild turkeys and other game in this heretofore untrodden wilderness, there was no trouble in procuring an abundance of meat. When the party reached Sandusky, the owner of the inn had prepared for them an excellent dinner of nice meats and cranberry pie.

When I first came to the settlement there was not a fence in the county-nothing but woodland with heavy underbrush and hazel bushes, separated by wild, rolling prairies. The grass grew very high, and it was an amusing sight to see a dozen Indians on a exciting deer chase. They would mount their pretty little ponies, give a characteristic savage yell, or "holler", as we called it, and were off in a jiffy after the panting deer. Every once in a while we could see their bobbing heads above the waving grass. Sometimes, when the grass was long and dry the red hunters would set it on fire, in order to frighten the game out of the prairie. The high roaring flames, accompanied by a dense volume of smoke, would sweep along the grassy prairies carrying destruction in their path and exciting the settlers with fears of a general conflagration. Indeed it was no uncommon occurrence for both men and women to turn out and fight the fire fiend all night to save their cabins and clearings from the destructive flames. We would carry water in buckets, or whatever came handy, and quench the approaching fire, assisted by our nearest neighbors, if we chanced to have any. On one occasion, I remember the water gave out, and we were in a dilemma- no water, and the fire nearing our little cabin. As a last effort, we knocked in the head of a barrel of vinegar, and with it, in lieu of water, succeeded in saving our property.

We did the most of our trading in Chillicothe, but after some time there was a grocery established in London, known as Gwynne's grocery. I think it was on the site of the old National Hotel on High Street, and a little of almost everything was kept there. Farmers would sell their fattened hogs to Gwynne for $1 50 per cwt., and trade out the price of them. Groceries were not very cheap then, but still the people lived as well as they do at the present time. Coffee would cost 50 and 62 cents per pound, and the best Imperial tea $4 per pound. Frequently we would send to Chillicothe after goods not kept in London. My husband has several times purchased a quart of sacramental wine for the old circuit rider who would make us periodical visits.

Only three families lived in that part of the county in that time-Captain Vincent's, Andrew Willoughby's and our family. Our nearest neighbors lived over on Deer Creek, where we would gather herbs and roots for cases of sickness among us. Later, as new comers came in we would help them put up their cabins and clear their place. If one of the neighbors would get sick, it was nothing uncommon to see the women friends doctor and sit up with them during their illness, while the men would carry on the farming of the sick man until his recovery.

Old Joe Stothard's house was chosen as a place of voting, but the election excitement was not as heated as now. True, each man liked to speak his sentiments, but he would not waste his time on politics as is done at the present time. Neighbors were social and always willing to help each other, freely and gratuitously. We would have our log-rolling-clear a field of logs and old trees-our apple-parings, quiltings and corn huskings. We all experienced pleasure in assisting one another. After corn huskings, the farmers would take their grain to the nearest market and get sometimes not more than 25 cents per bushel for wheat, while corn would bring 9 pence per bushel.

The neighbors would bring in their wheat to our large barn and thresh it with flails. Mr. B. was quite a carpenter, and was often called by new-comers to hew "punch-eons" for their new houses. He was an "Esquire" (Justice of the Peace) for over thirty years, and was for a long time a county commissioner, being a member of the County Board at the time the present Court House was built. As a Justice, trials would be held before him almost every Saturday, in the old house near Concord Chapel. In the summer, chairs were set on the porch and door-yard and justice was administered in the open air. If a case was sent to Court, (there being no Court in this county), witnesses were summoned to appear in Chillicothe, where Court was held. But as a rule people did not like to "law".

Chillicothe was a great trading post then, the State Legislature meeting there until 1816. Old Governor Worthington lived within a mile of the town and was a near neighbor of the Blizzards. He was a grand old man, kind and liberal.

Preaching was held in a school house near where Concord now stands, and Richard Goslee was one of the church pillars.

Dr. Toland was then a young hearty specimen of manhood, and together with old Dr. Stears, were the only physicians in the county. The latter lived near where London now stands.

Among the old settlers may be mentioned Richard Gosslee; John Jestis, Jos. Gillespie, Dave Dye, the Housmans, Countses and Johnsons.

The venerable old lady from whom these reminiscences of the past have been gathered, is now in her 94th year, and is in the enjoyment of a fair degree of health. Her hearing, sight and appetite are all good, but she suffers to considerable extent with rheumatism. She has done a great deal of hard work, and has never had but two dresses made in her life time. When young she would stack hay and drop corn with the agility, independence and experience of a man. She has never been a coward-it was not a characteristic of the family. Her brother has often mustered for battle, and on one occasion the company to which he belonged was surrendered to the British in the war of 1812, but afterwards, the brave young man made his escape and came back home. Grandmother Blizzard is now living with the widow of a deceased son, James Blizzard, in London. Her living children are: Levin W. Blizzard, Mrs. Sallie Crawford, Mrs. Betsy Corson, all of this county, and Wm. Blizzard and Mrs. Mary Wowkman, of Missouri.

It is with much regret that we chronicle the death of Mrs. Millie Blizzard, relict of Burton Blizzard, a well known early pioneer and office holder of this county. The old lady has been in bad health for several months past, and for some time previous to her death became paralyzed. She passed away peacefully and quietly, aged nearly ninety-four years, on Sunday morning last, at 11 o'clock, at the residence of her daughter in law, Mrs. Almira Blizzard on North Oak street.

Mrs. Blizzard was born near Cambridge, Maryland, on January 18th, 1788, and was a member of the old Willoughby family. She attended the funeral services of Gen. George Washington, held in the church of England, at Cambridge, in December 1799. After the death of her relatives, she removed to the old Gov. Worthington farm in Ross county, O., (in 1814), accompanied by her brother, Levin Willoughby. Here she married to Burton Blizzard, and after a few years came to this county, and settled on a clearing near where Hon. David Haskell now resides. From that time to the present, the deceased has been a continuous resident of Madison County.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, and the remains were interred in the Concord cemetery in Range township.

RANGE

Mrs. Susian Counts, relict of Peter Counts, was born in Fayette County, Nov. 2, 1812. She now lives at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Gillespie, Range township. This lady has remarkable vitality and enjoys life and a fair state of health at the age of 96.

Redmond Cantwell, aged 90, was born in County Tipperary, Ireland, on Feb. 12, 1819. He crossed the ocean in 1848. Is hale and hearty at present and attended church at London on Christmas day.

William Price, aged 86, residing at Range, was born at Frankfort, Ross county, Ohio, May 21, 1823.

Louisa C. Koontz, aged 86, has been a lifelong resident of Madison county, and enjoys fair health.

Jacob Kulp, aged 81 years, was born near Northtown, Pa. He now makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Robert Minshall, near Sedalia.

COOK

John G. Charles, aged 81, was born Feb. 29, 1828, about four miles from Philadelphia, Pa., which was then but a small town. He can remember when there was but one railroad in Philadelphia. Mr. Charles moved to Fairfield county when about nine years old, and lived there until a young man, when he moved to New Holland, O., and worked at the trade of a shoemaker until 28 years ago, when he moved to the H. L. Marcy farm, near Cook, and has lived in this vicinity ever since. He has always enjoyed the best of health until two years ago, when he had quite a spell of stomach trouble, but is in good health now for one of his age.

Rebecca Rummell Kellough, aged 94, was born April 10, 1816, in Shenandoah county, Virginia. She came to Madison county, March 1, 1865, and has lived here the greater part of 43 years. She is the mother of two children, Mrs. Mary McClean and J. W. Kellough; has quite a number of grandchildren, great-grandchildren and 13 great-great-grandchildren, the youngest of which is Virginia Helen Kellough, of Tulsa, Okla. Mrs. Kellough is comparatively active and persists in doing some housework, although bending with the infirmities of great age. She can still read and write and states that she "hopes to keep her health as long as she lives." She is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Sam McClean, at Indianapolis, but will return to her home at Cook as soon as pleasant weather comes.

ANTIOCH

Daniel Oglesbee, aged 89, was born in Green county, Ohio, Oct. 24, 1819, and has been a resident of Madison county 74 years, having moved here at the age of 15. He is the father of four children and lives with his daughter Miss Phocbe, on his farm near Antioch. Mr Oglesbee has been in poor health for some time, but at present is able to walk about the house, and can relate some interesting stories of the condition of the country when he moved here.

GROVE CITY

Robert S. Montgomery, aged 83, was born one mile east of Newport, Oct. 6, 1825, and when 10 years old he moved to Pleasant township, Madison county, where he resided until two years ago, when he went to make his home with Esther E. Bell at Grove City.

DEERCREEK

James Plimell, aged 80, of Upper Glade, was born Oct. 8, 1828, in Madison county, within a few yards of where he now resides, on the Gregg road, between London and West Jefferson. He enjoys good health.

Ransome Watrous, aged 91, formerly of Lafayette, is now residing at Magnetic Springs.

James Plimell, aged 80, of Deercreek township, was born Oct. 8, 1828, and lived all his life on the farm where he now resides.

LAFAYETTE

Mrs. Timothy Sullivan, aged 86, was born in County Cork, Ireland, and has lived in Madison county for 50 years. She is passing her declining years with her son, Jerry Sullivan, near Lafayette.

PLUMWOOD

Sarah S. Bradley, aged 87, formerly Sarah A. Jones, was born near Deer Creek in 1822.

TRADERSVILLE

William Teter, aged 81, was born at Bridgeport, W. Va., Nov. 25, 1827, came to Ohio in 1850, and has resided in Madison county ever since. He was married to Mary Kennedy, daughter of Judge Kennedy, June 9, 1853. She was called to her heavenly home May 30, 1886. Since then he has been cared for by his adopted daughter, Mrs. L. C. Brown, and family.

OAK RUN

Daniel Boyer, aged 81, Oak Run township, was born March 7, 1828, in Ross county, and has resided in Oak Run township for about 75 years. He is the father of 12 children, 10 of whom are now living. His wife is a few years his junior, and both enjoy good health.

James Clark, of Oak Run township, aged 82, was born Aug. 16, 1827, in Frederick county, Maryland. He settled in Somerford township in 1840, and was married to Martha J. Foster, Feb. 28, 1860. They went to housekeeping on the old McClimans farm, in Range township, and in 1861 moved to the farm where he now resides.
